

SUBSTANTANCE

A REVIEW OF THEORY AND LITERARY CRITICISM

ISSUE 141

VOL. 45, NO. 3, 2016

Cinematic Thinking: Film and / as Ethics

Guest Editors:

Robert Sinnerbrink & Lisa Trahair

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction: Film and / as Ethics Robert Sinnerbrink &amp; Lisa Trahair	3
Saints, Scandals, and the Politics of Love: Simone Weil, Ingrid Bergman, Roberto Rossellini Lisabeth During	16
Anti-Oedipus: The Ethics of Performance and Misrecognition in Matsumoto Toshio's Funeral Parade of Roses James Phillips	33
Dirty Harry Ethics Christopher Falzon	49
Unethical Morality in "Documenting" Terrorism: Terror at the Mall, Nowhere to Run, Wolves of Westgate David H. Fleming	66
Le Fils and the Limits of Philosophical Ethics Damian Cox	84
Belief in this World: The Dardenne brothers' The Son and Søren Kierkegaard's Fear and Trembling Lisa Trahair	98

Living our Skepticism of Others through Film: Remarks In Light of Cavell David Macarthur	120
The Problem of Wild Minds: Knowing Animals in Grizzly Man and Ming of Harlem Mathew Abbott	137
The Ethics and Politics of Negation: the Postdramatic on Screen Angelos Koutsourakis	155
Once More, with Feeling: Cinema and Cinesthesia Gregory Flaxman	174
CONTRIBUTORS	190